Chapter 26 Powerpoint Project

Section 1, Part 2 Instructions

The Cultures of East Asia

- You will base your powerpoint on the information starting at the last paragraph of page 484 (Japan’s Blend of Old and New) to the end of page 486 of your textbook.

- Do not copy sentences directly out of the book unless they are definitions for key words, or they are sentences that I have listed below for you to underline.

- Remember to make key words like dialects bold and to define them.

- Written below are sentences that will be on the test. Include these in your powerpoint and remember to underline them.

  - Although the Chinese have a common language, most people speak different dialects from region to region. A dialect is a form of a single language that sounds slightly different from another.

  - The populations of both Korea and Japan are very homogenous. This means that members of these groups are very similar.